league's scoring champion. Being a great scorer wasn't enough for Ogarbowale. She continued to improve other parts of her game. She worked to become a fully rounded player. She began to grab more rebounds. Ogarbowale also practiced her defensive stops. She started to understand her opponents. She watched how each of them defended against her. This helped to slow down the game a lot for her. And it made her more patient on the floor. She worked with her Dallas teammates and got them involved in her play. It made Ogarbowale's game even greater.
